"Andy Ly replied very quickly to the email Hai Vo sent out to all the team members and specified that he could make it on Fridays to the meetings. He provided his account username for Github as requested by Hai Vo. He also said that he made a Trello account. He also provided us with the TA's email address in case anyone needed it on the email thread. He shows interest in the project and helps others for the well being of the team." |

| Craig | Like | "Provided necessary information quickly" "Craig Hu has setup his programming environment already in Github and is ready to code. He has made a Trello account as well. He has kept in contact with Hai in order to facilitate joining both Github and Trello groups." |
| | Improve | "Craig did not respond to the email thread, so I did not see his reply in the team email. Since he did get added to the Trello group I assume he emailed someone from the group separately. Please make sure you send a reply to everyone in the group when replying through the team email thread." |
| Duke | Like | "assume he emailed someone from the group separately. Please make sure you send a reply to everyone in the group when replying through the team email thread." "approachable" "Duke Lee replied to Hai's email promptly and gave his availability for the week. He also quickly added his Github and Trello usernames to the same email which was convenient and efficient. He has been in contact with the team and notified us that he will be free all Fridays of this quarter. He has helped fellow team members catch up with the project's logistics and setup. He is on task with his reading and assignments for this class and ready to work on the project. It helps that he has used Ruby before." |

| Hai (PO) | Like | "Helped set up the presentation/GitHub/Trello and messaging everyone in team" "responsible" "prompt email, successful github and trello creation, easy communication." "Set up Git Hub and gather other proper information" "So far, the product owner Hai Vo, has been setting up the accounts we are going to use to develop our Homepage Web Application product. These include Github and Trello which are applications that will help us stay on task and collaborate. He promptly emailed the whole team to setup up our first meeting to make sure we could all make it. He also replies to email in a timely manner. I like the enthusiasm Hai is showing for this project, it helps encourage other team members to research this project a bit further. The project already has a well organized template on Github, provided by Hai. He chose Ruby as the programming language for this project which seems reasonable for a web application." |

| Steven | Like | "Provided necessary information" "easy to work with" "Steven Yeng is interested in this project and shows experience in Ruby. He has made a Trello account and was added by Andy Ly to the Trello group. He has looked at the framework and has a Github account up and running." |
| | Improve | "Steven did not respond to the email thread, so I did not see a reply from him to the team email. Although he must have emailed someone else in the team since he was added to the Trello group. Please make sure you communicate to all team members for availability." |
